Criteria for Choosing First Nation, Métis and Inuit Resources

- The resource is appropriate and relevant for teaching and learning of Indigenous traditions.

- The resource respectfully represents the diversity, knowledge, and world views of Indigenous peoples.

- The resource was developed and validated by a qualified, reputable, Indigenous source. Some examples may include: Indigenous organizations, Elders, knowledge keepers, authors, or scholars.

- The resource includes appropriate strategies, activities, or visuals that support teaching and learning of Indigenous storytelling traditions.